

Video Brochures

Video brochures are the next generation of marketing. Our lightweight, portable video screens are enclosed in custom printed cards allowing you to deliver an impactful message in an attractive package.

The shell of your digital brochure can be a booklet style, where opening the cover automatically starts your video or a more traditional button style that offers power and volume controls.

Uses

Our digital brochures can be a useful sales or marketing tool for almost any business. Often these are used to present a new product to prospective clients, but they are also great to promote services of a company. They are commonly used in sales pitches, tradeshows and make a huge impact as a mailed piece for high-end marketing.
